“The Art and Politics of Eating” Exhibition and Events

Since 2014, I have been developing The Art and Politics of Eating project <http://theartandpoliticsofeating.com/> with my documentaries and paintings <http://theartandpoliticsofeating.com/paintings/>, along with tastings, wine dinners, presentations and other events focusing on food and art, sustainability, wine, agriculture and economics.

(New York Vintners screening and wine dinner)

Screenings in Philadelphia, New York, and Toronto in April, 2016 included documentary-wine dinner events with Spanish Grapes - <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bliAtT3otCA> at New York Vintners and the Globe Bistro (Toronto). In June, a pop-up exhibition at the London Cooking Project will feature a screening and wine and olive oil dinner, a wine and olive oil tasting, and a panel discussion about food and art. More North American events are being planned for October, along with an exhibition of my paintings and panel discussions on wine and economics, sustainability and urban planning and more.

The project both examines and breaks down boundaries between various aesthetic experiences and art forms, transforming restaurants into cinemas and art installations, and galleries into dining and living rooms.
